Sarah aims to capture one-off shots

The elegance of Kelmarsh Hall's 18th century architecture provided the perfect backdrop for this stunning Alice in Wonderland-themed wedding shoot.

Sarah Vivienne captured images inspired by Tim Burton's Alice in Wonderland, representing fantasy and childhood adventure. Her images are bold and beautiful and demonstrate her creativity and ability to transfer her ideas into a themed wedding day.

Sarah has built up a glowing portfolio to be proud of over the last two years. Inspired by film, TV and fashion photography, Sarah aims to capture one-off shots that sparkle and demonstrate the special moment.

Kelmarsh Hall was chosen for its elegance and beauty and was perfect from a technical perspective as Sarah explained: "Kelmarsh Hall is an amazing venue. The scenery is stunning. But more importantly for a photographer there's a lot of natural light and space inside.

"The decor inside the venue matched the feel and vibe I wanted to create in the photographs.

"I wanted to bring the Alice in Wonderland theme to the forefront of a bride's mind, to capture what a themed wedding could look like.

"While the styling was rather quirky, in some ways it was also quite vintage in others, particularly with the tea party table and poses."

"Kelmarsh Hall fitted with this shoot perfectly."

Surrounded by its own working estate and the Northamptonshire countryside, the Hall is set in tranquil seclusion.

Its policy of exclusive use guarantees wedding parties the privacy and freedom to enjoy Kelmarsh Hall as if it were their very own. It offers a range of flexible wedding packages and can accommodate up to 350 guests.

Wedding co-ordinator Jill Doughty said: "The team at Kelmarsh believe in making each and every wedding day unique and tailored to suit the needs of the bride and groom.

"We look forward to getting to know each couple personally to build up a relationship and understand what they really want. Kelmarsh is home from home. The most important day of one's life should be relaxed, fun and beautiful."
